GR0002 Absorbent Granules 20 litres

Whether you are working at an industrial site, in a garage or simply at home, it is not always possible to prevent accidents from happening.

That said, the prudent thing to do is to be prepared for when these accidents do take place.

It is especially important when working with oils or chemicals as they are hazardous substances that can cause serious harm.

This is where the Ecospill range of absorbents and spill control products could have the solution to your needs.

The Ecospill range of spill granules has been developed for use in a variety of different applications.

They are a loose absorbent and a cost effective measure for dealing with general liquid spills in and around the workplace.

Just pour onto the spill, brush in and brush up, leaving the surface perfectly dry with no residue.

Ecospill was founded in 2010 with the focus of becoming the UK market leader in absorbents and spill control products.

The company is already renowned in the market for customer focused quality and corporate thinking.

They offer an unrivalled range of products including their own high performance absorbents.

There products are now manufactured exclusively at their parent company's brand new, state of the art manufacturing facility in Strasbourg.
